Federal Funding Interactive Guide for States

The BroadbandUSA "Federal Funding Interactive Guide for States" provides a starting point for users to explore federal broadband funding options that are available to specific states and specific counties within each state. The interactive guide for states includes program information from the Appalachian Regional Commission, the Denali Commission, Delta Regional Authority, and the Northern Border Regional Commission which are only applicable to certain states.

Users can download the interactive guide to use it offline on multiple platforms, including mobile devices, making it an accessible option for users with minimal internet access. The interactive guide for states is based on the information provided by the federal agencies listed above for NTIA's BroadbandUSA Federal Funding Website. It highlights general information about each federal program, including program descriptions, important dates, contact information, and links to program websites.

Please note that application deadlines may have already passed or program funds may have already been dispersed. For the most up-to-date information please refer to the program website or Grants.gov. For additional information about state level broadband programs and possible funding available through each state, visit NTIA's State Broadband Leaders Network map. For additional information on federal funding for states not included in this guide please visit NTIA's Federal Funding Website.

Distressed Counties

Department: Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC)
Federal Agency/Bureau: Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC)

Program Overview: ARC targets special resources to the most economically distressed counties in the region, using a measure of economic distress based on three economic indicators: three-year average unemployment rates, per capita market income, and poverty rates. ARC normally limits its maximum project funding contribution to 50 percent of costs, but it can increase its funding share to as much as 80 percent in distressed counties.

Important Dates (if applicable): Applications can be submitted throughout the year although individual states may have specific requirements.
